

This is the RAG for the initial state of the system:

Since P1 is requesting a resource that is available, we can give it a resource of type T1 and then it will be finished. With this, we get this RAG:

Now, P3 can get all the resources it requires which results in its termination and the RAG below:

The only process left is P2, and since all the resources are available it can also successfully finish.